About the OIV

The OIV is an intergovernmental organisation that establishes scientific and technical standards for the vine and wine sector.

Role description

Under the authority of the Director General and the supervision of the Head of Unit Oenology and Methods of Analysis, the Oenology Intern will work on the subjects of packaging and dealcoholisation of wines.

More specifically, the Oenology Intern will oversee the following tasks:

Wine packaging

- Conduct a review of currently available and innovative packaging solutions and closures for wine, evaluating their impact on wine quality and environmental sustainability,
- Review available OIV documentation and relevant international standards to identify potential gaps or areas requiring further research or standardisation,
- Prepare a written report and a presentation summarising the findings, to be delivered at the OIV spring meetings,

Dealcoholisation

- Conduct a review of currently available dealcoholisation practices, assessing their impact on both wine quality and environmental sustainability,
- Review of currently available wine, wine based and vitivinicultural product-based beverages with low alcohol.
- Evaluate dealcoholisation techniques based on the composition of fractions obtained during the process, their potential valorisation, and relevant regulatory implications,
- Prepare a written report and a presentation summarising the findings, to be delivered at the OIV spring meetings,

Additional tasks

- Assistance in preparing necessary documentation before and during the OIV spring meetings,
- Carry out any other related task and secretarial work that might be assigned.

Recruitment conditions

- Working hours: 35 hours per week
- Allowance: 650.00 € per month, plus specific compensation scheme (contribution to public transport tickets and meals)

Qualifications required

- Citizen of an OIV Member State
- Undergraduate student (obligatory to have a university agreement)
- Excellent knowledge of English
